

I think that the radio hosts that promoted violence towards bicycle riders should be recognized as doing the wrong thing. In a day and age when there is so much violence already existing, it seems completely wrong that radio hosts can use their position to encourage more violence. I know that there is a freedom of speech issue here, but what they did seems wrong. I am a recreational bicycle rider and I have had items thrown at me.